Community Book Discussion
Chatham Elementary School was selected as one of only 21 schools in the State to participate in The Kaleidoscope Collective For Learning’s pilot program dedicated to rethinking education through the “Deeper Learning” model. This model brings innovation to the classroom, engages the whole community in learning, and redefines education so that it comes to life for every student. As part of the continued exploration of this learning and teaching model, community members are invited to read In Search Of Deeper Learning: The Quest To Remake The American High School by Jal Mehta and Sarah Fine. These authors will be speaking with our community this spring to discuss their book and the “Deeper Learning” model. Our book discussion group will allow participants to process the information presented in the book as well as prepare attendees for speaking with the authors this spring. Books are available through the EPL and should be read before the program date. Registration is required.
